HOPKINSVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOL LIBRARY.

The Coming Entertainment for its Benefit.

MR. EDITOR:
 The approaching entertainment on behalf of our Public School Library, will doubtless be gladly welcomed, by the wide circle here of the friends of our Public School system. The immediate object of this appeal to the generosity of our people, is closely connected with the usefulness and practical benefits of a Free School System. While the purposes of a well acquired elementary education in the branches taught in the Public School, are obvious in the advantages such knowledge gives in the occupations of a practical life, still it ought to be remembered, that education to be made attractive, should be surrounded by allurements, other than are in the dry, tread-mill forms, and whip-crack routine of the mere school-room. The spur of rivalry in high marking may enliven for a time but it jades and wearies. Our educators are and have been wrestling stoutly with the problem how best to make the school life, in its rigid labors less an aversion and a tire to the child in training. Hence the "Kindergarten," the "object lessons," and kindred rests and oases, out of the old A B C paths. Hence also, the more logical and intellectually persuasive attractions of the school library. Here as experience shows, in well chosen selections of books written for, and by skilled authors adapted to the gradual mental advance of the school child, and covering in deft, happy language and imagery, lessons in life and duty—lie ever flowing well springs of refreshing vigor for the taxed but elastic mind of youth. In the Public Schools of all our large towns and cities, libraries chosen with judicious care, stand side by side with the text-book and black-board, and on library days the glad welcome of thronging children, attests the charm of the voiceless, but speaking shelves. The library which is to be the beneficiary of the coming entertainment is now but the nucleus of what a cultivated and assiduous care and beneficence may make it. It originated in the unforgetting and praise-worthy efforts of a few young ladies and gentlemen of our community. Their exertions have resulted in the collection of some 500 volumes of entertaining and useful books. To the tireless energy, and strenuous efforts of Miss Emily B. Perry and Prof. C. H. Dietrich, the present favorable showing of the Library, is mainly due. It is sincerely hoped that a generous public will reward the coming effort for the same laudable end, with an attendance resulting in a large increase of books, rendering the Library eventually, a source not only of pleasure, but of pride to our citizens.

The Franklin Favorite relates that during a recent cold spell the rear legs of a lamb were frozen and dropped off. The lamb is now hale and hearty, with this exception, and can run about with astonishing rapidity on its front legs. It carries its head down close to the ground and elevates its rear parts at an angle of about forty-five degrees. When in motion it resembles very much a boy walking on his hands.

The annual sale of the Church Hill Grange will take place June 17th, and every effort will be made to make it one of the most successful sales yet held.
 Sunday was such a fine day for fishing that many persons in the city took their poles and went out to fish awhile "just for fun."
 The protracted meeting at the Methodist church closed last week. There were twenty-three conversions and quite a number of accessions to the church during its progress.
 Mr. Benj. West an old and highly respected citizen, died yesterday at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. J. W. Hicks, near Church Hill. Mr. West had been in feeble health for some time.

Rev. Dr. T. G. Keen, of Evansville, preached at the Baptist church Sunday morning to a very large congregation. Dr. Keen greatly endeared himself to the membership during the many years that he was pastor of the church and they are always glad to have him fill his old pulpit.

Mr. C. E. Tandy, the Fairview druggist will have a drawing June 25 at which time he will dispose of a music-box to some one of his customers. Every person buying 25 cents worth of goods at his store and paying cash therefor, between now and the time of the drawing, will be given a ticket free.

In the notice of the Ryals-Dickinson nuptials at Trenton last week, the names of two of the bridesmaids—Misses Lela Dickinson and Mary Hattler—were left out. The ushers at the church were Messrs. G. C. Wood, S. E. Steger, F. J. Runyon and Jno. C. Dickinson.

Messrs. E. H. Hopper, A. W. Pyle, Clarence Anderson and the latter's two sons, returned Saturday from a fishing trip down on Pond river. They went to Johnson's mill or thereabouts and the result of five days' angling was about 60 pounds of fine fish. They report having had a good time generally, but as is usually the case they were so unfortunate as to let their best fish get away.

Mr. Reuben Bailey, the Todd county farmer bitten by a mad-dog some time ago, has never developed any symptoms of hydrophobia. An account of the affair was given in our columns at the time. The promptness with which Mr. Bailey acted in cauterizing the wound and having a madstone applied probably saved him from a horrible fate.

Mr. E. L. Foulks will test the constitutionality of the health ordinance in so far as it refers to the filling up of privy vaults, etc. Mr. Foulks declined to obey this part of the ordinance and was arraigned yesterday in the City Court and fined $10. He requested the Court to make the fine large enough to allow him to take an appeal. He filed notice of appeal to Circuit Court.

Messrs. J. W. McClanahan and J. L. Feaganes, the victims of the saw-mill explosion near Pembroke last Monday, are now out of danger and on the road to an early recovery. Mr. Feaganes who sustained the worse injuries will probably have some ugly scars on his face where his jaw-bone was broken, but it is almost a miracle that either of the gentlemen got off as well as they did. The explosion was so terrific that heavy pieces of wood and iron were thrown a distance of one hundred yards or more.

Many of our merchants and business men are taking quite an interest in our double number to be issued in a few days. Still there are some whose sketches we have not gotten as yet. We would like to have all represented, and we hope those who are still in doubt will make up their minds at once, as the time is very near for the issue to appear. We will issue the largest circulation ever issued in this city, and we want to make a paper that not only the people of the city and county will appreciate, but one that will interest the outside world; but in order to do this we must have the co-operation of our business men.

Hal Cockrill and his brother, Bud Cockrill, of Devine, Estill county, with several assistants, were bringing some rafts down the Kentucky river, when they observed Bud Parker and his brother, of Clay's Ferry, with several assistants, behind them with rafts. The Cockrills shouted to the Parkers to guide their rafts to the east or west bank, so as to avoid a collision. The Parkers, it is said, could not guide their rafts, owing to the swift current in the river, and a collision was the result, the rafts belonging to the Cockrills being badly broken up. Some hot words were passed between the owners, and in a few minutes pistols were drawn, and both factions began shooting. The two Parkers were killed instantly, and four others were badly wounded.

A CLEAN SWEEP.

THE COUNCIL ORDERS DOWN ALL PROJECTING SIGNS, HITCHING POSTS, BOX-ED SIGNS AND WOOD-EN AWNINGS UPON THE STREETS.

Thank Heavings, the Lamp-Posts Still Remain.

A few days ago the Council acting under chapter 17, section 7, of the General Ordinances, ordered the sidewalks cleared of obstructions, including samples in front of stores. The ordinance is as follows:

"Any person or persons who shall obstruct the sidewalks, streets or alleys of the city, or cause the same to be done, with wood, coal, brick, mortar, boxes, barrels, wagons, carts, drags, or other obstructions, or shall build or cause to be built any fence thereon, shall be fined not less than $5, nor more than $20 for each day such obstructions shall remain. Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to building material intended for immediate use, and which shall not occupy exceeding one-half the width of the streets from the curbing on the one side of the building and which shall be removed as soon as practicable in building."

There is also a special ordinance against hanging signs across the pavements, which was passed in 1877, but has never been rigidly enforced. The order of removal recently issued by the board embraced actual obstructions, but on last Friday a second order was issued through the chief of police, which included everything in, on or above the streets, curbstones or pavements. Under it every sign upon the streets was condemned; hitching posts outside the curb-stones were ordered up, boxed sign posts, bill-boards and wooden awning frames, with posts in the ground, were hauled down and now nothing remains but the telegraph poles, lamp-posts and now and then a tree. Some of the signs ordered down were put up this year at an expense of $25 or $30.

The SOUTH KENTUCKIAN is not disposed to prescribe a course of action for our city fathers, but it claims the right to condemn the ordinance under which they acted in removing signs that were in no sense obstructions. Many of these signs were of great service to the merchants. They served to designate and locate stands with those who could not read the signs over the doors. We believe the business interests of the city will suffer by the rigid enforcement of this ordinance. The absence of everything that would serve to act as a guide, or assist visitors or strangers in finding their way in the city, will do but little to encourage trade and invite custom. The present Board cannot be blamed for enforcing an ordinance already existing—though they may be interpreting its intentions a little too rigidly—but there are many other ordinances that are very loosely enforced and whose enforcement is more urgently demanded. There is an ordinance prohibiting profanity on the streets, but when was any effort ever made to enforce it? there is an ordinance against vagrancy, but when was a tramp ever forbidden the freedom of the city? These are but samples of the many ordinances that are practically dead-letters, the enforcement of any one of which would do good without doing injustice to the business interests of any tax-payer. But still there must be a starting point and it may be that our "Reform Council" will follow up the work begun and enforce all the ordinances as rigidly as the one concerning pavement obstructions.

Do not fail to patronize the entertainment for the benefit of the Public School Library on next Friday night May 1st. See to it that every seat be taken. General admittance 50 cents, gallery 25 cents, reserved seats 50 cents. Seats on sale at Holland & Rodgers, confectionery store on and after Thursday morning, April 30th. Remember that the small admittance fee charged is not for private benefit but for the public good—the good not only for the present but of the future also. The little folks who assist in the entertainment will be assigned seats in the gallery and be carefully guarded from any harm in marching to and from the stage and at the close they will be detained a moment to enable their friends to obtain possession of them.

Spring Opening.

Mrs. M. E. Rodgers will have her spring opening of fine hats, bonnets, flowers, ribbons and novelties Thursday, April 30. She cordially invites all the ladies to be present.

Hal Cockrill and his brother, Bud Cockrill, of Devine, Estill county, with several assistants, were bringing some rafts down the Kentucky river, when they observed Bud Parker and his brother, of Clay's Ferry, with several assistants, behind them with rafts. The Cockrills shouted to the Parkers to guide their rafts to the east or west bank, so as to avoid a collision. The Parkers, it is said, could not guide their rafts, owing to the swift current in the river, and a collision was the result, the rafts belonging to the Cockrills being badly broken up. Some hot words were passed between the owners, and in a few minutes pistols were drawn, and both factions began shooting. The two Parkers were killed instantly, and four others were badly wounded.

 WALTER F. GARNETT, C. T. C.

Mr. J. W. Wade and Miss Susan E. Kenner were licensed to be married last week.

The Lancaster correspondent of the Danville Advocate gives this item: "Just after reading his text last Sunday morning, Rev. Grinstead, pastor of the Methodist Church, was shocked to hear a voice in the congregation exclaim, 'that's a d—n lie!' The whole congregation were upon their feet at once, consternation depicted upon every face. After some difficulty the scamp was found and taken out by the sexton. The man was one Harry Weinman, a bricklayer, and was very drunk upon this occasion. He was arraigned in the Police Court, Monday morning, before Judge Singleton, and fined $50 and costs."
